

MANNHEIMER SWARTLING IN COOPERATION WITH STOCKHOLM SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS PRESENTS

The Mannheimer Swartling Scholarship Programme in Russia

Mannheimer Swartling, in cooperation with the Stockholm School of Economics (SSE), is offering an academic scholarship for a Russian professional or a Western professional with interest in Russia. The scholarship implies a grant covering 75 % of the tuition fee for the Executive MBA (EMBA) program organised by SSE Russia.

You are hereby cordially invited to nominate an applicant within your organisation to apply for the abovementioned scholarship for the 2020 EMBA program. Female applicants are particularly encouraged to apply.

The program, granting an SSE Executive MBA diploma, runs over a period of two years through thirteen five-days modules to be delivered mostly at the SSE Russia venues in St. Petersburg and Moscow. In addition to providing first-class skills in areas such as accounting and finance, economics, leadership and human resources, marketing, international business, operations management and strategy, the two-year academic voyage features devoted stints on personal development, an own consulting experience and an executive master thesis.
